

Week 3 in Review

1. Github- This week I had no problems with the Git. I feel like it is definitely less foreign now. https://github.com/mirandajlee/Lee_Miranda_Portfolio
2. This week I felt great, I kept up with all of my assignments. I spent the necessary time to complete my assignments on time and learn the most in my assignments. I enjoyed the feedback and comments that I received from my peers. I was thankful to see that my peers are in the same situation as me and feel that we need very similar encouragement. I spent extra time this week studying for JavaScript and learning more on the side of the class as well.
3. I feel that this week my time and effort is exactly what I plan on spending on my education and my industry. I got things done on time and well before the due date. I performed well this week, I think it will reflect in my grades.
